ANNUAL DINING OUT

Scores of NAT-CAPers assembled at the Andrews Air Force Base Officers' Open Mess on January 19th to participate in the Annual Dining Out of the National Capital Wing. Colonel Ronald A. Quander, Wing Commander, welcomed those in attendance, including Mr. William J. Reynolds, the guest speaker; Brigadier General Russell C. Davis, Commander of the 113th Tactical Fighter Wing, District of Columbia Air National Guard; Colonel Charles X. Suraci Jr., Middle Eastern Region Inspector; and Lieutenant Colonel Harold "Hap" Harris, Assistant Region Inspector.

A longtime aviation test pilot, William J. Reynolds is regarded as one of the nation's foremost aviation artists. His aerospace paintings communicate a sincere respect and love for flying, developed over the many hours spent in the cockpit of an aeroplane and the long association with aviation. His many varied experiences in aviation are translated to the canvas, expressing deep involvement and integrity. Mr. Reynolds has been commissioned to paint many historic aerospace scenes, especially two each year for the National Aerospace Education Congress. He served as a fighter pilot during World War II, where he flew the P-40 with the 49th Fighter Group in the South Pacific, and in recent years, served as the Liaison Aerospace Education Officer for the Middle Eastern Region, Civil Air Patrol.

Many NAT-CAP Wing personnel received awards during the Annual Dining Out for their various accomplishments in CAP. The affair ended after remarks by Colonel Quander and other dignitaries. Dancing followed in the Open Mess Lounge.

FOUNDER'S DAY OBSERVANCE

The National Capital Wing, Civil Air Patrol observed Founder's Day in afternoon services on Sunday, December 2. Wing Chaplain, Lt Col Alva R. Appel presided during the event which featured many prominent Civil Air Patrol officers.

The services began at 2:30 with presentation of the colors by cadets from the Wheaton-Silver Spring Squadron. Following a piano duet by Rose and David Eide-Altman, Lt Col Harold "Hap" Harris, Assistant IG, Middle Eastern Region, greeted those in attendance. Lt Col Harris encouraged all to continue to maintain regard for "duty-honor-country", in his remarks, which were partly taken from the book of Galatians. Colonel Charles Gries, Liaison Officer, Middle Eastern Region, was next to speak and urged all to continue to hold high the principles of Civil Air Patrol.

Chaplain (Lt Col) William Sumner, Fairfax Squadron, delivered the keynote address. In his remarks, taken from Luke 4-14 and Isaiah, Chaplain Sumner praised the accomplishments of Civil Air Patrol and urged the members of National Capital Wing to continue their efforts.

Following the address, presentations were made to the musicians, to Lt Col Stanley Voyaziakis, National Capital Wing and Congressional Squadron Liaison Officer, to Lt Col Harris and to Colonel Gries. In a statement following the affair, Chaplain (Lt Col) Alva R. Appel remarked, "The National Capital Wing is privileged to celebrate the 43rd Anniversary of the establishment of Civil Air Patrol. We believe Civil Air Patrol is God ordained to the saving and enrichment of life through its Cadet and Emergency Services programs."

THE CHALLENGE OF AEROSPACE

Aerospace, a contraction of the words air and space, is a term used to identify the entire region extending from the earth's surface through the total expanse beyond.

The capacity to act through the expanse beyond the earth's surface is known as a nation's aerospace power. In this power equation the civil-military-industrial factors are indivisible parts of the whole. Moreover, this power structure, in a democratic society, rests upon the foundation of an informed citizenry enthusiastic and capable of acting wisely in a aerospace world. Just as ancient man explored the seas in ships and the man of yesterday conquered the air in balloons, men today are penetrating the outer atmosphere in unconventional aircraft and venturing into space aboard revolutionary vehicles.

The aerospace sciences that have fostered today's technological achievements have simultaneously generated dynamic humanistic forces that are changing significantly the social, economic, political, and educational structure of our nation and the world.

All of our people should become familiar with today's aerospace world and the impact of its technology upon society if we are to maintain the national and international leadership necessary to advance as a people dedicated to freedom and to world progress.

LOGISTICS

Welcome to 1985!! Supply Officers - You have received your 1985 Supply Kits. Use them, and meet your report dates on time. If you need information, see one of "The Team" or me. There is still a need for Senior Members/Cadets to help out at the Warehouse on days that it is closed - - cleaning - painting - cutting grass, etc..

As Supply Officer's, you must consistently be on guard against the misuse of CAP property. I ask you to stress this point to all members in your Squadron or at Wing Headquarters. Use your CAPM 67-L. We hope to have a meeting with all Supply Officers at Wing HQ to go over the new CAPM 67-L, the new CAPF 37, CAPF 111, and CAPF 38 reports. You are asked to attend, meet and know the Logistics Staff:

Lt Col Thurston Staples - Director
Capt Louis A. Gignac - Maintenance
1st Lt Jesse W. Carpenter - Transportation
2nd Lt Nicola Tenaglia - Supply

Transportation Officers - Do your Preventative Maintenance! We have oil, rags, anti-freeze and some parts. You can repair, do body and fender work, brake work, tune-up's, tire changing, painting or any other work in the warehouse, on any Saturday. Use This Facility!!!

Lt Col Thurston Staples
Director of Logistics
